As we all know, programming is not dry, it's as boring as people think it's a miniature world you can explore. In any career to succeed you also need to work hard and take time for it, take care of it like a child. But with the information technology in general and the programming profession in particular, more and more need. Why so ? Simply because this is a job not quite easy, the pressure is very high if you do not have a proper view, love and passion will be difficult to follow this career.
